Appendix A

SREB-State Data Exchange

Definitions of Institutional Categories

and Listing of Public Universities, Four-Year and Two-Year Colleges, and Technical Institutes or Colleges

Throughout its 47-year history, the SREB-State Data Exchange has recognized the importance of reporting comparative data by institutional category. States have very different mixes of types of institution; therefore, comparisons by institutional category can add much to the analysis of statewide aggregate data.

Designed to be used for interstate statistical comparisons, the SREB method for grouping postsecondary education institutions in categories is based on several factors generally used to determine their resource requirements. Institutions are classified based on size (number of degrees and full-time-equivalent enrollment), role (types of degrees), breadth of program offerings (number of program areas in which degrees are granted) and comprehensiveness (distribution of degrees across program areas). The SREB classifications do not consider other factors relevant to determining resource requirements, such as cost differences among programs or externally-funded research.

The SREB-State Data Exchange recognizes that methods of grouping institutions may serve different purposes. For example, in funding formulas for colleges and universities, states take additional characteristics into account in forming comparison groups. The SREB-State Data Exchange assists states in analyzing groups across states by making the institution-level data from the Data Exchange survey available on SREB's website. In addition, many SREB publications report results using the categories listed in this section.

Institutions in SREB states are assigned to categories using data on program completions from the previous academic year — or, for two-year colleges and technical institutes or colleges, using data on estimated full-time-equivalent enrollment for the current academic year. The classifications reported here are from the 2015-16 SREB-State Data Exchange, based upon 2014-15 program completion data and 2015-16 estimated full-time-equivalent enrollments. Institutions must meet the criteria for another category for three consecutive years before they are reclassified into that category.
